Looking for treatment options for your itchy dog?

O No

Sometimes

Is your dog scratching? Does your dog keep you up at night with sounds of chewing and licking? It might be canine atopic dermatitis, a common allergic disease affecting 10% of dogs worldwide. Answer the questions below and share your responses with your veterinarian. Together you can find the cause of the itch and treatment options that work—for your dog, and for you.

	Signs of possible canine atopic dermatitis:
	My dog has been diagnosed with atopy or atopic dermatitis	th alle	ergies,	OYON	I () S
	My dog has hair loss, a rash or skin that is tchy, red, scaly or irritated			OYON	I O S
	My dog has experienced ear irri or skin infections, or recurrent	OYON	I O S
Relationship/Bond:
	The scratching is disruptive to	my d	og's life	OYON	I () S
	My dog can't seem to get comfortable at night and the scratching keeps my dog (or me) awake $\ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ $
	The current treatment for my dog's skin disease Y N S has side effects or the treatment schedule is disruptive to our relationship
	My dog and I can't play as much as we used to \bigcirc Y \bigcirc N \bigcirc S due to his/her scratching
	My dog's scratching is disruptive to my life $\bigcirc Y \bigcirc N \bigcirc$
Impact of treatment:
	I have tried the following to reliable (check all that apply):	· I have tried the following to relieve my dog's itch
	 Topicals (shampoo, creams, rinses, etc) 	0	AntibioticsAntifungal		0
	• Cream	0	· Allergy sho		0
	• Steroids	0	• Other		0
	 Antihistamines 	0
	Treatments for itch have had the following results (check all that apply):
	 Did not control itch well enough 	0	Increased tIncreased t		0
	• Did not control itch	0	• Change in		0
	long enough		• Difficult to		0
	 Upset stomach from oral meds (vomiting and diarrhea) 	0	• Other		0

The reality of treatment:
My dog does not enjoy taking pofood or treats	OYON	○s
I cannot apply topical treatment frequently as instructed or they	OYON	○s
Giving medication to my dog or is challenging	Giving medication to my dog on a daily basis s challenging
Giving medication on a daily bas maintain long-term	OYON	○ S
Other things to consider:
My dog is under 12 months of age
I am interested in a biological treatment that works like my dog's immune system rather than traditional pharmaceuticals
My dog has other conditions or diseases besides itchy skin (check all that apply):
DiabetesCushing's disease	 Gastrointest (eg, ulcers) 	inal issues	0
• Chronic infections	• Cancer		0
Pancreatitis	 Demodex 		0
- Turici cutitis	• Other		0
I prefer my dog not to be on ste	OYON	\bigcirc s
I am willing to visit my veterinarian every 4 to 8 weeks for an injection

If CYTOPOINT is not right for you, Zoetis offers a variety of options to treat canine skin diseases. Please visit us at

If your dog has atopic dermatitis, talk to your veterinarian to see how CYTOPOINT™ can help improve the quality of life for www.zoetis.com to find out more.

you and your dog.